

Christmas Comes Early At Seldens Landing Elementary

Students Enter Christmas Card Contest

Friday, October 28, 2011 by Danielle Nadler

Fifth-grade Seldens Landing students spent Thursday morning at the National Conference Center sketching winter scenes. The students will submit their artwork for a chance to be featured on NCC's annual Christmas card.

This is the fifth year Seldens Landing students participated in the contest, according to the school's art teacher Steve Loya. In years past, the students spent a fall morning outdoors on the NCC campus to spark inspiration as they sketched, but Thursday's rain kept them indoors.

The public can cast their vote for their favorite drawing on the NCC Facebook page (www.facebook.com/nccmeet) through Thanksgiving.

To find this article: http://www.leesburg2day.com/news/schools/article_4d071d96-017d-11e1-aafc-001cc4c03286.html